

APPLICATION OF BINAHONG LEAVES DECORATIVE WATER FOR HEALING OF PERINEUM RUPTURE IN PUBLIC WOMEN WITH POCKET BOOK EDUCATION MEDIA

Uswatun Hasanah

Uswatun160899@gmail.com

University 'Aisyiyah Surakarta

ESSENCE

Background: Perineal rupture is a wound in the birth canal. Birth canal wounds are wounds in the birth canal. The causative factor is infection. Prevention of infection can be done in various ways, one of which is by decoction of binahong leaves, binahong leaves contain ascorbic acid which can increase resistance to infection and accelerate wound healing.

Purpose: To increase people's knowledge especially postpartum mothers regarding how to heal perineal rupture using boiled water from binahong leaves.

External description: Creating educational media in the form of a pocket book containing writing and pictures as a support to convey messages and information more interesting for public interest in reading, especially postpartum mothers.

Conclusion: From a pocket book that is made effective for information media and can help educate, especially postpartum mothers and can be used as an alternative treatment for perineal rupture healing experienced by postpartum women with non-pharmacological therapy. which is in the form of boiled water from binahong leaves.

Keywords: Binahong Leaf, Perineal Wound, postpartum